

Improving mental health care system in the border area Suceava – Chernivtsi

The problem. Project's solution

Mental health services in the Suceava-Chernivtsi border area face growing challenges due to war trauma, social isolation, outdated infrastructure, and limited access to care.

This project addresses these needs by improving psychiatric hospital infrastructure, enhancing staff skills through joint training, and organizing awareness campaigns. Mobile teams and community screenings will reach vulnerable groups, while cross-border collaboration supports early intervention, reduces stigma, and strengthens mental health resilience for a population under severe emotional and psychological stress.
